

African Internet News for 05/18/2018

How Africa can bridge the gender digital divide

Internet freedom good for African innovation

Africans urged to defend digital rights

Mobile tools to unlock productivity of African utilities' workforces

Internet platforms need to tackle anonymity to protect freedom of speech

The Transform Africa Economic Forum Is Proof That Africa Knows Its Onions

Reducing Risk Through the Internet of Things

S.African rand firms in EM relief rally, Naspers boosts stocks

Embracing digital transformation is the way of the future

Inside The World Bank's Gamble On 'Digital Economies' In Africa

Facebook pulls youngsters into its orbit

Congolese Entrepreneurs Overcome Many Challenges to Prosper

Comsol, Verizon and Samsung collaborate to launch 5G trials in SA

Information and communications under the spotlight at MICSSA

AU, Internet society, unveil new guidelines on personal data protection

Is the South African labour market ready to embrace the gig economy?

How Technology Can Improve Africa

East Africa to rev up mobile broadband users to 186 million

Mobile tools to unlock the productivity of African utilities' workforces

Thaicom to Expand Distribution Network in Africa with MediaVision

In DRC, home-grown digital entrepreneurs defy odds

Speed and the internet will drive South Africa's economic growth

South Africa: Eastern Cape Learners Battle Without Internet Access

The rise of OTT and VOD services in Africa

Learners Need Free Internet Back In Eastern Cape Libraries

Africa's offline gender gap is getting replicated online

South Africa: 2019/18 Telecommunications and Postal Services Pre Budget Vote Media Briefing

Free Internet access for all South Africans should be a basic human right

Teraco's NAPAfrica among the top 15 largest global IXPs